Los Tesoros de Joaquin 2006 Tempranillo

VINEYARDS

In the late 1990s, nineteen acres of Tempranillo were planted in the Raboli vineyard, adjacent to the 92-acre estate that comprises Murrieta's Well. Similar in climate to the Rioja and Ribera del Duero regions of Spain, the Livermore Valley is an ideal growing region for Tempranillo. The Raboli vineyard is sustainably farmed and hand-harvested in the early morning hours.

WINE STYLE

Tempranillo is the backbone of the great wines of Northern Spain, and it flourishes as equally well in our Estate vineyards in the Livermore Valley, moderated by warm days and cool, foggy mornings and evenings. Extreme care was taken in the handling of this Tempranillo throughout the growing and winemaking process. It was fermented in stainless steel tanks, which allowed for cold-temperature control, leading to a pronounced fruitiness. The cold fermentation was complemented by malolactic fermentation in oak barrels.

FLAVOR PROFILE

Our 2006 Tempranillo has enticing aromas of dark plum and black cherry, with undertones of bacon, black pepper and earth. Dark fruit flavors, complemented by soft tannins and a hint of earthiness, create a round mouthfeel and a long-lasting finish.

THE WINERY

Murrieta's Well is named after the legendary gold rush-era desperado, Joaquin Murrieta, who camped by the artesian well on the property on his way to Mexico to sell wild horses. As Joaquin traveled throughout the Livermore Valley rounding up horses to bring back to Mexico, he also searched for treasures to share with his family and friends. Today we continue this tradition of discovery with the wines of Los Tesoros – the treasures. Los Tesoros wines are sold only at Murrieta's Well winery and are selected by our founders, Sergio Traverso and Philip Wentz, as true riches of the Livermore Valley.
